

TimeSlips™

CONNECTING THROUGH CREATIVITY

Who We Are

An award-winning non-profit bringing meaning and joy into the lives of elders, founded by MacArthur Fellow Anne Basting.

Our Approach

We train staff, family and volunteers in our evidence-based approach to invite elders to explore and celebrate their creativity. We train organizations to infuse creative engagement across their care services to become vibrant cultural centers for their clients, families and neighbors.

What We Offer

- A FREE digital Creativity Center with 100s of prompts to inspire creative engagement
- Training for Families, Students and Volunteers ($29)
- Training and Certification for Individual Professionals ($249)
- Certification for Organizations ($3,500)
- An inspiring international network of creative facilitators and models for creative celebrations
- Consulting on integrating creative engagement into care systems and services

Research

TimeSlips has been the subject of numerous, independent research studies that suggest that TimeSlips can

- Improve staff - resident relationships
- Improve staff/student attitudes toward aging and dementia.
- Improve mood and communication among people with dementia
- Improve organizational engagement with family and volunteers.

“The online format was great, it is really nice to be able to work in the learning as you can versus giving a whole day or more to an away from work training. Staff are enthusiastic and supportive. Great team to work with!”
